SCHOOL REPORT.

It affords us great pleasure in presenting our annual report, to be able to say that the schools during the past year have all been successful. Among the most essential requisites of a good school is a good teacher.

We have been fortunate in selecting and placing our teachers. We have employed eleven, six of whom were old ones, and five filled their old places. We regard every one as successful, and most of them eminently so. It would be difficult, perhaps impossible, to secure better for the places which they filled.

Three sets of school charts were purchased for use in the last two terms, which after being fully tested seem an indispensable article. Three more are needed to supply the schools. There should also be a globe and a dictionary in each school. It will cost about $7.5 to make the above purchases and we think it would be money well expended.

During the last two years the district has raised additional sums of money to lengthen the schools, in consequence of which we have had three terms instead of two as formerly. This was out of the usual course and the attendance of the winter terms was watched with great interest. But they have been nearly as well patronized as the spring and summer terms, showing that the parents appreciate the advantages thus afforded. The only serious hinderance to the prosperity of our schools this year has been irregular attendance and absenteeism. It should be understood that when a child is attending school that is his business, and should be attended to with as much regularity as if he was working in the field or mill.

Time properly devoted to schooling should not be usurped by something else. It is not necessary to here emphasize the necessity of regular attendance. Every one who will give the subject a moment's thought will readily see that when a child is absent he cannot receive the benefit which the school might give. But irregular attendance is not the worst of existing evils. There are many children of school age who are not in the schools. This is a great trouble to the school board. It does little or no good to remonstrate with the parents. They promise to send next week, or next term, but fail to keep their promise. This condition of things has been more marked the present year than ever before. Some have been idling away their time, others have been in shop, mill or at work in the field.

The school board, realizing the need of more school money, asked for it, and the citizens of Belmont granted the request. It is your right to demand that every child of school age attend school unless for some good reason he is excused. It is also your privilege and should be your pleasure not to withhold your moral support of the schools for the maintenance of which you are voluntarily taxed. We have a class of people in our community who, not enjoying the advantages of education themselves, cannot appreciate it for their children. There are also those among us who, having no love for our civil institutions, place a low estimate upon the liberties which they in common with us enjoy. They are here simply because they can obtain a living easier than elsewhere; contributing nothing towards our material prosperity except their labor, for which they receive the market value.

What wonder if such are indifferent in regard to the education of their children, or refuse to recognize any obligation to town or state in the matter of rearing a generation of enlightened, useful citizens. It would cost them little or nothing to send their children to school. Many of them are not at work, and if they were the child's time is of more value to himself than it can be to his parents.

While the classes referred to may be, in a measure, excusable, there is another class for which we find no excuse. We allude to those who were reared, and have always lived in this or neighboring towns, availing themselves of the facilities afforded by the public schools to acquire a fairly good education, who keep from, or allow their children to absent themselves from school, in consequence of which they are growing up with less education than their parents and are entering upon the activities of life poorly equipped for its duties.

It has not been the custom in this town to enforce the laws for compulsory education, but when violation of the school laws is so frequent and glaring as at the present time, it is evident that something in this line must be done. To aid in this work we ask the selectmen to take an accurate census of the school children as the law requires. While this effort is made, we earnestly desire every man, woman and child, who has the welfare of the rising generation at heart, to assist to the best of their ability in bringing all the children into the schools.

Whole number of scholars in town not under five years of age who have attended district schools not less than two weeks, 181. Number of children in town between the ages of five and fifteen years as reported by the selectmen: males, 86; females, 82; total, 168.

We omit the detailed report of each school and teacher, as it is the privilege of parents to inform themselves in these matters by visiting the schools.

The purchase of school books and supplies was in charge of Dr. G. H. Ingalls, and the sum paid was $142.75.
